

MACKINNON COMPLETING SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR

Canada Expands Trade In Western Hemisphere Lands

Most-Favored-Nation
Treaties Are Signed
With Latin Republics

By JAMES MONTAGNES

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The conclusion of most-favored-nation trade agreements between Canada and Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Peru and the establishment of Canadian legations in the capitals of certain of these republics are signs of increasing efforts being made by Canada to expand trade with countries of the western hemisphere. Canada's minister of trade and commerce, James A. MacKinnon, is now completing a tour of South America in the course of which he has made treaties with these five republics and is conducting negotiations with other republics.

Measured in dollars Canada's trade with Latin-America has increased the most in the war. We have bought considerably more than we have sold there, but both imports and exports are far above those of pre-war days.

A valuation made by a Canadian bank, which has extensive branchings in Latin-America, shows that Canadian exports for the first seven months of 1941 are up 50 per cent over the same period in 1939 and 25 per cent over that of 1940. Canada's buying from Latin-America has shown even greater increase being up 307 per cent over the 1939 figure and 74 per cent over the first seven months of 1940. The first seven months of 1941 Canada's total Latin-American merchandise valued at $18,700,000, bought mainly raw materials valued at $2,600,000. These figures include trade with the British West Indies and Puerto Rico, which accounts for exports of nearly $200,000 and imports of $1,400,000 for the same period.

FAIRLY SHARP INCREASE

"A fairly sharp increase in Canadian and United States trade with Latin-America since the outbreak of the war is a logical development in view of the expanded needs of wartime economy and the stimulation of European supplies of manufactured articles," states the report. "Of paramount importance to Canada, however, are the extent and permanence of possible increases during the next few years. Some indication of the trend is discernible in current trade figures, but any conclusions are contingent on the policy of the United States in the future. The course of the war and post-war requirements. Prospects for further gains in imports from Latin-America vary according to the nature of the product. Fairly large relative increases appear likely for tropical and other commodities that are not produced in the United States."

"Increased sales of Canadian products in Latin-America depend largely on purchasing power in the Caribbean and American states where production for foreign markets has been hampered to most present needs of the United States, Great Britain and Canada, an improved market might be developed for such Canadian products as wheat, flour, paper and rubber manufactures, machinery, electrical apparatus, lumber and some base metals. The majority of the remaining areas of South America, depressed through loss of European markets, to a substantially greater volume of Canadian goods is to be expected. A certain amount of financial aid by the United States appears to be in prospect; this might encourage Canada to find additional purchasers in this area. Export statistics reveal a noteworthy increase in purchases by those countries most likely to be interested in Canadian goods (Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Chile). Exports to the remaining areas of Latin-America show a considerably smaller gain."

Enlistment Up
To Government
Calgarians Say

Calgary, Oct. 25.—(CP)—Returning the call on national enlistment policy to Ottawa, Calgary business leaders have urged the government to enlist the help of the armed forces.

Text of the resolution follows: "Whereas the Dominion government has informed employers that it was their duty and obligation to encourage military age enlistment for service with the Canadian forces overseas; and whereas the said employers have already used what influence they have with employees to encourage enlistment."

"Now therefore be it resolved that the Dominion government be informed that employers in this community have heretofore exerted such influence as they possess and may fairly exercise to encourage enlistment by their employees and it is in the power of the said employers to compel any of their employees to enlist."

"That they are unable to comply with the request of the government. And that if the Dominion government should desire that the said employees be compelled to enlist, it should obtain such enlistment through enforcing conscription."

A recent issue of the Canadian government's Commercial Intelligence Journal, reports a market in Mexico for the better class but for women, since there are no really first-class hair dressers in Mexico and Canada is the only factor affecting sales in this way. The journal also states that Canadian manufacturers are another market.

Variety of Canada's exports to Latin-America is noted in the government's Commercial Intelligence Journal report of recent date. The 'cotton' has been popular in Panama, Costa Rica and Nicaragua for many years, and Canada has enjoyed the largest share of the business.

With the United Kingdom and Norway out of this trade, Canada should be in a position to increase her shipments to these countries if the necessary supplies are available. Statistics also show the United States as the largest supplier of cotton to Central America, but this is due to the fact that the cotton business is to a large extent handled by United States middlemen, and that Canadian cotton is sold by them directly to firms in Central America and is shipped from United States ports.

NEW OTTAWA LEGATIONS
This year both Argentina and Brazil have opened legations at Ottawa. The first from South America, Canada has recognized with the appointment of ministers to these two republics—Jean Desjardins, formerly Canadian minister in France, as minister to Brazil, and W. F. A. Turgeon, chief justice of the Supreme Court, as minister to Argentina. Brazil appointed J. A. Lima de Barros, and Argentina Dr. Pablo Sanjurjo, as ministers to Canada. Similar diplomatic representations will be appointed in the near future between Canada and Canada is well known to the school children of Santiago, one of the largest towns in Panama, 180 miles from Panama City. For quite a number of years in the school named "Domino del Canada." Next July 1, the school will celebrate Dominion Day just as we do here. That is another development in Canada's relations with the Latin-American countries.

Teacher Gives
Foundation For
Future Ideals

Infering that it takes just as much intelligence to teach a five-year-old child as it does to teach a 15-year-old, Dr. Clark Fraser, Eastern Washington College, director of teacher training, told teachers of education in his closing address at their convention that there is no reason why teachers of lower grades should not be paid the same salary as higher grade teachers.

Dr. Fraser and his colleague, Dr. Raymond Hawk, director of research at the same institution, delivered their final addresses to the teaching bodies Friday afternoon after addressing teachers' convention in the youth of the nation in all parts of Alberta during the last three weeks.

Teacher Gives
Foundation For
Future Ideals

Dr. Fraser spoke on "The Administrator and the Teacher" and showed how the general situation in the relationship of administrator to teacher is much the same as the relationship of teacher to child. Under the present setup that relationship is very far removed from democratic principles, he said.

The superintendent of the school can be quick private with the generalists of the army and the teachers are quick private with the generalists of the superior command. Dr. Fraser said, in denouncing undemocratic educational methods now in use.

In the final address of the convention Dr. Hawk took as his topic "The Wealth of Our Nation." For greater wealth than can be counted materially to our nation is its youth and the ideals of democracy, Dr. Hawk said.

In referring to the youth of the nation he said that the teacher has the good fortune of being in a position to be able to develop the spirit of youth within himself. "Unfortunately, however, too many of us fail to realize what fun we could have teaching if only we got away from the worries over such trivialities as technicalities in the 'teaching game' he said.

The boys and girls will be custodians of the ideals the teacher takes on, and the teacher is in a position to develop democratic ideals, Dr. Hawk said.

Dr. Hawk blamed the present totalitarian educational system upon the theory that in the growing years of a new nation, the divine right of every person was to get all he could for himself. As a result the nation developed a generation of people who know how to get and hold power with no respect for the other man, he said. "Now we have suddenly awakened to the fact that such education will not do, and we have to take immediate account of what the world is and what the world wants," he added.

The two guest speakers presented a series of slides and colored films at a public meeting in St. Mary's Separate high school, 101 street, on Friday evening.

Many of the revolutionary features of teaching that are being adopted in their colleges in Washington were shown.

Another feature that was strikingly different from the average type of class room was the complete absence of desks and the almost negligible amount of blackboard space used.

Purpose of the films was to show how a home-like atmosphere might be developed in the classroom. Dr. Hawk and Fraser were commentators as the pictures were shown.

Paper Expresses Hope For Peace In Pacific Area
LONDON, Oct. 25.—(CP)—Japan News Week, only American-owned newspaper in Japan, expressed hope Friday night that Japan's reorganized government will be able to find a "peaceful solution" for the crisis in the Pacific. The British Broadcasting Corporation reported last night.

"Both governments are undoubtedly aware of the grim prospect of failure to reach a peaceful solution," it said.

Founded in 1880 by Hon. Frank Oliver to so many laudable ends, the Bulletin has been a part of the life of the city of Edmonton, Alberta, ever since.

Law-Abiding Law-Breakers

Calgary's chief of police says his men have more trouble trying to make the streets safe than catching criminals. More trouble, that is, with people who are normally law-abiding citizens than with those who live by robbery and violence.

That is a curious paradox, but it is by no means peculiar to one city. It has been true also in Edmonton in recent weeks, and it is at times true in every city. The offenders against traffic laws and regulations are the great majority persons who obey all other laws and regulations, nor have they anything to gain by being law-breakers in this one particular.

This makes the enforcement of traffic rules difficult, and distasteful to policemen and magistrates. If only known criminals broke the law, the police would get plenty of help from the public in discovering violations and violators. It is different when some one of good reputation is the party involved. A speeder is just as much a public menace whether he is an honest man or a professional crook and the law and its officers should make no distinction when action is due to be taken.

But there is also the other side of the case. If it is the law, it is no less the duty of the private citizen to respect it, and in a too large proportion of cases the citizen who respects the law is a little or no compensation about breaking traffic laws. That is not the part of good citizenship. It gives law-breakers a false appearance of respectability and smartness.

Two Great Men

With the political aspect of Mr. Wilkitt's appeal to the Republican voters has no proper concern. But the war policy he advocates is a matter of world interest and importance. It would go even farther than the Administration has gone or is immediately proposing to go to ensure the "destruction of totalitarianism by whatever means necessary."

Since the Democrats and the Republicans together represent all but a small minority of the people of the United States, and these are the two parties which shape the national policy beyond all question, there could be no better guarantee of victory for the cause of freedom than that they should differ only in the degree and the time for following the wholehearted of the great republic into the struggle.

The people who still have the blessing of self-government and those who seek to regain it can never regret the debt they owe to President Roosevelt, but neither will nor should they forget the debt they owe to Wendell Wilkitt.

He played leadership in the American Republic leader could have hampered the action of the President, even to the extent of preventing the United States from taking more than a nominal role in the world crisis. Instead, he has consistently backed the policy of active defence, and ever-ready assistance in destroying the conspiracy of aggression.

The United States is fortunate—and so is the world—in having a President who the two parties who set the course of the nation in this time of decision.

Italy Has Suffered Enough

Signor Gayda has got into the dispatches again, after an absence which may have been due to anything but remorse. He is described by an official at Washington mentioned in a report that Herr Hitler had asked if Duce to send a million Fascist soldiers to the Russian front.

Such a request might be thought to be flattering rather than offensive, a mark of the Fuehrer's high regard for the prowess of Benito's fighting men. But not so to Gayda—who is credited with often saying what Benito would like somebody other than himself to say. He is positively angry at the official reference to the report. Circulation of the story, he says, might cause "unpleasant" in that it might lead to a misunderstanding of the alliance with Germany. Which seems not altogether unlikely.

The admission was hardly to be expected from a quarter so close to the seat of authority—that Italians do not want to fight Hitler's battles and might regret it more than a token contingent of Italian troops were called for. The danger is evidently real, since it is considered dangerous that a proposal of the kind should be even talked at the official level.

If that is the case it does not indicate solidarity of the Axis. The apprehension of the Mussolini spokesman is a very broad official hint that there is no such solidarity. Which probably is also true.

Whatever Mussolini thought or hoped, Italy was dragged into the war by Germany. It has paid a terrible price, has got nothing in return, and will get less if Hitler won than it will get if he loses. Bitter experience has evidently made these facts clear to so many laudable ends, the Bulletin has been a part of the life of the city of Edmonton, Alberta, ever since.

The Eighteenth Week

The eighteenth week of Hitler's onslaught upon his former munitions purveyor found the weary titans exchanging blows. The German blows were aimed at Moscow, with little territorial gain by the attackers except to the south. They now hold Odessa, at the cost, it is said, of Rumanian casualties and prisoners numbering 250,000 since the start of the campaign. German losses, which may include those of the conscripted subject states, are estimated at Moscow to have reached 4,000,000, dead, wounded, captured and missing. Out the estimate in half, it is still appalling, and means a reduction of at least a third in the first line Nazi troops.

Sheer exhaustion, freezing mud, and swirling snow may have had as much to do as the heroic fighting of the Russian soldiers in slowing down the blitzkrieg. Herr Hitler announced three weeks ago. These allies have now come to the aid of the defenders, and are factors with the party involved. They will have to reckon for months. While the conditions will make operations difficult for both, they will be more hampering to the invaders because they must advance to gain their objective, while the defenders are victors if they only hold their ground.

No doubt the German high command is already plotting a new offensive. But that it can organize another as formidable as the one now appearing is doubtful. The Russian and wounded men and smashed tanks and planes represent a loss that is permanent. These can be replaced only by withdrawing soldiers, and withdrawing from occupied countries already ready withing with revolt. The events of the week can have brought little cheer to Berlin.

Peria is to get a rebuilt railway, at little or no cost to itself, from the head of the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea, opening a new fast route for supplies sent to Russia. British authorities are looking after the building of the new line, and the line will connect Russia and Australia to supply steel and rolling stock. To the Persians it will seem that the "magic carpet" is coming true.

Hitler Doesn't Deserve A Coffin

Asks for Protest on Refusal of Five Dollar Pension; B. C. Election

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Bulletin: As one who knows, it appears that unless a writer to the press has some ground against an organization or government, the papers simply are not interested in printing the communication. It is only a student of the certainty whether this appears.

We really don't hate nobody—in fact we have the greatest admiration for it, say Canadian statesmen, both federal and provincial are stacking up to Canada's war effort.

It is a terrific task and as new adjustments are called for I am sure that they will continue to make them. That's that. I see by the papers that a "community" up your way is going to go all out in a dance around a coffin labelled "Hitler".

On well, over any comment would be that the bird doesn't deserve a coffin and as an adjunct to a dance, without half trying we could think of a couple of hundred more preposterous articles than coffins.

Calgary columnist recently asked if "you can remember when you used to run outside when you heard an airplane engine?" Well, yes, I can remember 20 minutes ago. Someone from Penhold learning how to find the "Heimles" in the dark.

Lady, you will never know what an amusing remark that was. God forgive me—or, as Blondie's housewife says, "Give me strength." WILL D. MACKAY.

50 Pension

Editor, Bulletin: No doubt the old pensioners who have been seeing in the minds eye the warm underclothes they used to wear, the $5 bonus of Alberta have been demanding for them, will be shocked to hear the premier of Alberta turned it down.

The small sum of five dollars that is given to widows and half-payers for many years has been a great help to many men, that have to pay war prices for food and clothing. I have heard that the Premier's speech, God mercies on Sundays, was worth $10,000 to the old pensioners.

A government that can raise a premium to $10,000 for the old pensioners, is a government that is not afraid to be merciful to the old pensioners.

If a few thousand aged, sick, some helpless pensioners cannot get a bonus of $5, what chance has a tradesman, a mechanic, a manufacturer, and a general boss in trade?

What are you going to do about it? Why demand it? Don't allow any government to starve you, or starve your government, you put them there. It is up to the people to see that justice is done.

It is a terrific task and as new adjustments are called for I am sure that they will continue to make them. That's that. I see by the papers that a "community" up your way is going to go all out in a dance around a coffin labelled "Hitler".

On well, over any comment would be that the bird doesn't deserve a coffin and as an adjunct to a dance, without half trying we could think of a couple of hundred more preposterous articles than coffins.

As an old mud-slinger and a Mills bomber, I am sure that I think that remark about the lady in Edmonton who prefers "airmen" for Sunday dinners is out of the box in too plain language.

Editor, Bulletin: No doubt the old pensioners who have been seeing in the minds eye the warm underclothes they used to wear, the $5 bonus of Alberta have been demanding for them, will be shocked to hear the premier of Alberta turned it down.

The small sum of five dollars that is given to widows and half-payers for many years has been a great help to many men, that have to pay war prices for food and clothing. I have heard that the Premier's speech, God mercies on Sundays, was worth $10,000 to the old pensioners.

A government that can raise a premium to $10,000 for the old pensioners, is a government that is not afraid to be merciful to the old pensioners.

If a few thousand aged, sick, some helpless pensioners cannot get a bonus of $5, what chance has a tradesman, a mechanic, a manufacturer, and a general boss in trade?

What are you going to do about it? Why demand it? Don't allow any government to starve you, or starve your government, you put them there. It is up to the people to see that justice is done.

LITTLE EXPECTATION OF PROFITS

Mining Industry Geared To War Effort From Start

Canada Largest Metal Exporting Country Of World, Expert States

By GEORGE C. BATEMAN
(Secretary Ontario Mining Association Address to Manitoba Chamber of Mines)

At this time we are facing new conditions and profound changes as a result of the European war. I am glad of the opportunity to speak to you for a while on some of the achievements of the industry and of some of the contributions which it can make to our war efforts.

In Canada we are practically free from the danger of air raids. We have large supplies of raw materials and our manufacturing facilities are exceptional for our population. We are in close proximity to some of the most friendly nations in the world. The United States can supply not only many of the materials needed for war production, but what is also very important, the research and technique necessary for the production of certain types of equipment, and we are also relatively close to England.

Because of all these factors Canada will be essentially a bonus for our allies. Our contributions in this respect will reach a magnitude never before dreamed of. It will probably result in a great dislocation of the industry before we reach our maximum effort. Manufacturing facilities will have to be turned to types of production which will be unrepresentative when the war ends. Consumption of many materials will be curtailed because undoubtedly as our facilities and labor are required for war production, a large measure of government control will be exercised.

RIGID CONTROL

We are already subjected to a rigid financial control. It is only a matter of time and not a matter of degree that this control will be extended to include the mining industry.

Where the government is in control, the industry will be in control. It is only natural to expect that government officials will be in a position to deal to say in the conduct and operation of war industries, but in my opinion control will not stop there. I believe that as the available labor is absorbed in war production and the need for men becomes more pressing, government control may be exercised to curtail certain non-essential industries, to say to some, you cannot expand your operations, to say to others, you can operate at only a certain percentage of your capacity, and perhaps to say to others, you must close down because your men are needed in other places for more important work.

Now all of this will mean a great deal of dislocation in the industry generally but fortunately mining is an industry which is best able to stand the shock of such changes. This is partly due to the fact that it is a large extent non-competitive and that it is already in a high state of efficiency.

Mining does not have to be geared up for war effort. It is already in that position, with the latest equipment and methods. This is a remarkable position for an industry which has so many relatively small units. It would be impossible without the interchange of ideas at meetings such as this where details of the latest and best practices are freely made available to the largest as well as the smallest operation.

I have been talking about the probable effects of the war, or at least what I believe will be the probable effects, and about the readiness of the mining industry to meet the demands which may be made upon it. Now, for a short time I would like to talk about the contribution which the industry can make and make no mistake, it will be a very real contribution, both material and financial. When I speak of a financial contribution, I am now talking about taxes. Although last year Ontario mines alone paid between 12 and 13 per cent of the total corporation taxes collected by the Dominion, but I believe that the mines are entering

First Brick Of Gold Is Poured, Thompson Mine

Thompson-Landmark gold mine has poured its first gold bar, the occasion marking the fifth gold mine in the North West Territories to enter production in the past three years. It is the fourth in the Yellowknife area. The others are the Con. Bygon, Nereah, all in Yellowknife, and Slave Lake Gold at Outpost Lake.

Millar operations at Thompson-Landmark started on August 15. Tonnage, which started at about 30 per day, is being gradually worked up to the rated capacity of the mill, which is between 100 and 125 tons per day. An average grade of around $20 per ton for millfeed has been officially estimated, together with operating costs of around $10 which would represent a profitable operation.

The Thompson-Landmark property lies 30 miles by air from the Yellowknife, and is located on the east side of Thompson Lake. Early development results attracted keen interest and in September last year management was taken over by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which installed the mill and brought the mine to production.

Power is supplied over a 25-mile transmission line from the Prosperous Lake development of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. About 100 men are employed.

We might compare the Canadian mining industry at the time of the last war to a youth who had hardly reached the age of military service. During the intervening years he has grown in size and strength and is now ready to play his full part. We are apt to overlook what has been accomplished in this interval. Continued on Page Nine

Geologist Makes Rich North Find

A find of fine gold in places extending as far as 400 feet and averaging 24" wide is stated to have been made by Dr. A. W. Joliffe, a mining geologist on the Yukon. The find was made in the upper Yellowknife zone. The claims on which the find was made are owned by N.W.T. Gold Limited, an Edmonton mining company. Officials of N.W.T. Gold confirmed the story, stating that it has now been examined by the company's engineer Mr. W. McDonald. He also stated that the company for the present intend to continue the development work recommended by its engineer on the N.W.T. Gold Limited, an Edmonton mining company. He was formerly with the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which installed the mill and brought the mine to production.

Northern Miners Buying War Bonds

Northern miners are helping Canada pay her way in the huge war expenditures by investing regularly in war savings certificates. A large number of them last summer also bought Victory bonds. Monthly aggregate of war savings certificates purchased by the miners runs into the thousands of dollars and some mines have 100 per cent of their employees pledged to purchase certificates every month. The miners have been buying the certificates since the first "drive" was made by the Dominion government for war savings. Examples of the efforts of the miners to purchase the certificates is seen by the 225 employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company Limited at Yellowknife. They purchase a total of $1254 worth of certificates each month and are pledged to keep up this amount each month. At Goldfields 170 employees are pledged to purchase a monthly aggregate of $800 in certificates, while at the McKenna Red Lake Gold Mines Ltd., where the payroll lists 117 employees, the men purchase $1000 worth of certificates each month.

State employees of Florida, travelling on expense accounts, are limited to $450 a day for hotel rooms and meals.

Platmarnig Mill Soon To Produce

The new 100-ton mill of Platmarnig Mines Limited, property of which is situated about 12 miles from the Con mine in the Yellowknife area, is expected to start operations shortly after the middle of November. The Bulletin is informed by a company official that the mill will be owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd., which for the past several years has advanced funds for development and equipment, this money to be repaid out of first profits from production. Power is supplied to the mine by the Con hydro-electric development on Prosperous Lake.

Gibbs Forecasts Post-War State In Great Britain

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25 (AP).—Sir Philip Gibbs, British journalist and author, said in an interview Friday that England will emerge from the war "a sort of semi-socialist, semi-statist nation, with those below moving up and the aristocracy at the end."

The First Great War was, correspondingly, now 64, said he did not see why Russian Bolshevism should spread across Europe if Hitler is defeated.

"Rather," he said, "the Russian people, who are now coming up to the light for the first time since their revolution to fight this war, will demand and get a new constitution with true speech and more rights."

MINING IN WARTIME

MODERN war is more than the old-time clash of armed men. Modern war is mechanized war. In a sense the war raging today is a war of metals, including gold which is used to pay for it all.

The defense of the Empire may in a sense be said to begin at the mines where iron, nickel, copper, lead and gold are blasted from the rocks. By our resources in metals as well as in men, the British Empire fights this war, and Canada's mines are contributing an important share. In gold alone Canada's contribution last year represented more than one-fifth of the British Empire's total production.

By our surplus mining products available for export Canada builds credit for necessary purchases abroad, and helps keep her exchange situation in hand.

This Bank has been distinguished as "the mining man's bank" from the first days of Cobalt. With the demand for metals what it is today, the services of Imperial Bank of Canada in the mining districts take on added significance. With branch offices situated in all the producing areas our facilities will be found adequate to meet war-time requirements.

North Mines Products Have Nation-Wide Significance

Big Gold Ore Tonnage Handled At Five Mills In Sub-Arctic Regions

By LEONARD E. DRUMMOND

(Secretary-Manager of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines)

A short time ago an old-timer who had seen Edmonton rise from a frontier post to an important city spoke about the old days when it took six hours' hard driving to reach his coal mine, near Cardiff. He stressed the fact this locality was almost within the boundaries of Edmonton and quite a vital factor in its development.

That was in the days when transportation was accomplished by horse and heavy wagon. Today, the methods of conveyance have changed, and the mining area of the North West Territories, which has created nation-wide interest, can be reached in just the same six hours by aircraft.

The transportation facilities have overcome the distance factor and extended the area in which the city may serve a useful purpose. The great north-west with its mineral wealth is just as important to Edmonton as the nearby oil fields. Its products have a nationwide significance. The men employed in Edmonton with their dependents here and their supplies and equipment purchased represent hundreds of thousands of dollars to the business houses of this city.

LARGE TONNAGE

In this new mining field, with only a narrow fringe which has been examined in any detail, there are now five mills installed. Con Mine of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, 350 tons per day; Nugus Mine, 60 tons per day, which will be increased to 80 tons; Parnagum Mine, of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, 100 tons per day; Thompson's Landmark Gold Mines Limited, 120 tons per day; and Slave Lake Gold Mines Limited, about 50 tons per day.

In addition to this, a small 25-ton-per-day mill is ready to be installed at the Giant Yellowknife Mine and a small portable mill is to be taken in to the Ruth claims near Desperation Lake, 30 miles east of Yellowknife. This will mean that in this territory there will be about 740 tons of ore crushed and milled per day in 1942 which is a remarkable increase over the beginning of this year with only two mills and a capacity of 220 tons per day.

GOLD PRODUCTION

In 1940 the gold production amounted to $2,121,000 and in 1941, with the additional mills, was reasonably expected about $7,000,000. Supplementing to this will be the production of Edwidge Gold Mines Limited which has been shut down for two years but which is reopening in 1942.

This mine which shut down was milling ore valued at $2,500,000 per year, derived from radium, uranium, cerium, silver, copper and cobalt. When this is in operation, again, it probably will induce the reopening of the Bear Expedition and Radium plant at Contact Lake, some 15 miles east of the Edwidge, where silver and some radium are found.

This is the outline of productive operations in the North West Territories and to this must be added the northern Saskatchewan plant of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Goldfields, on Lake Athabasca, with a capacity of 1,500 tons per day.

The progress of every field is dependent upon the investigations into new areas and the intensive prospecting required in the discovery of new ore bodies.

WORK GOES ON

In spite of war demands, this work is going on and new discoveries are being made. Some of the same finds will remain dormant until financial conditions make possible their development but several will

McNaughton Praises U. N. Of Mining Men

Lieut. General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian corps overseas, had warm words of praise and thanks for the assistance given by Canadian mining men in forming a detachment equipped for special duty.

This technical group has been of tremendous assistance," he said to Lieut. Col. Alan Cockburn, when the latter was in England a few days ago with General Lord H. H. Dill. "Please thank Mr. Thayer Lindsey and say how lucky it was we arranged to meet in Ottawa," he added.

Mr. Lindsey acted on this occasion as a liaison officer for the mining executives. The companies have operated without benefit of publicity, several hundred thousand dollars on this military scheme, and have evolved several important new in warfare.

He drilled and checked in preparation for this development.

Among these promising prospects may be cited the turquoise occurrence which has been found in a few days ago with General Lord H. H. Dill.

Follow-Up Form Lease-Land Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt received an initial report Friday from John D. Biegan, his send-trace expediter in London, who said he hoped to provide a "service and follow-up" form of assistance in the United States for aid to Britain.

The Mackenzie River Transport has more than a dozen ships either steam or diesel-powered.

They have a combined carrying capacity of more than 3,000 tons. These boats operate on regular schedules during the summer from the north end of the Arctic coast. The company also operates 20 or more boats with a carrying capacity of more than 2,500 tons.

Northern Transportation Company has more than 10 diesel-powered vessels with a combined carrying capacity of nearly 2,000 tons. Yellowknife Transport has four tug and six barges with a combined capacity of nearly 700 tons. McInnes Products has four boats with a carrying capacity of more than 2,500 tons.

Beides the tugs and barges, the McInnes Corporation has two refrigerated barges. These in one season carried more than 1,000,000 pounds of fish to the railhead.

TONNAGE INCREASED

Each year the tonnage is increased by the companies and the facilities offered the travellers are extended yearly. This year the transportation companies experienced one of the heaviest seasons on record and it is expected next year will bring further expansion and possible additions to the fleet.

Fleets Serving Mighty Inland River System

Inland ship transport companies of the north serve a river system more than 2,000 miles in length and ply the waters of lakes comparable in size to the Great Lakes of eastern Canada.

The service is carried on by companies using large diesel-powered boats and two- and three-decked steamers.

Four companies, two of which have their head offices in Edmonton, operate fleets in the north. They are the Hudson's Bay Company, Mackenzie River Transport, the Northern Transportation Company, the McInnes Products Corporation and the Yellowknife Transport. All have fleets of vessels, varying in size. These boats ply the northern waters supplying northern mines, traders and business houses.

Funny Business

The Empire is deficient in all supplies, depending only about the third of its requirements. Canada's only important source in Alberta. Production in this field has been expanding rapidly, having doubled from 3,027 to 10,000 tons in 1925, with a further substantial increase for 1926, but the total still fall far short of Canadian requirements.

Of the base metals which are available, copper, nickel, lead and zinc are the most important. We have a large surplus over our own requirements, and our increasing production of these has enabled Canada to become the largest metal exporting country in the world.

Porting country in the world. The greatest weakness in base metal trade to date has been in the lack of iron production, although indications now point to this deficiency being remedied. For many years past, and up until the outbreak of the present war, Canada did not produce a ton of iron ore. Within the past few weeks, however, the Iron Ore Commission of the Iron Ore Corporation has come into

Due to the high physical standards required by the industry, Canadian miners represent probably the hardest body of men actually fit men in any industry in the Dominion. If the time comes when the demand for man power is greater than the demand for materials, the miners will be among the first to answer the call.

This is a farcical way of pointing out a very plain truth. It is essential that we should clearly distinguish between what is right and what is wrong, distinctions between duty and desire, and that we should do what we should do, under present conditions. There may be discussion of industry, but we must be sure that our minds do not become confused. Individual desires must be sacrificed to national necessities. This war has created a co-operative effort in which each will give the best he has, each should not grumble in the contribution, by taking advantage of the pressure of war conditions to make unreasonable demands.

Histories estimate that leaflets dropped in Germany by Allied air men shortened the first world war by at least six weeks.

Rail Workers Urged To Buy War Savings

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—All employees of the two big Canadian railway systems are being urged to buy war savings certificates. The chief executive officers of the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. are taking a direct personal interest in the drive. Mr. Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.D., and R. C. Vaughan have issued appeals to the individual members of the large staffs of the transportation organizations over which they preside.

Both companies are arranging for paid employees to purchase war savings certificates by payroll deduction. In his message Mr. Vaughan writes: "Six dollars a week is a liability at this time. They should be set to work and one excellent way of doing it is to use your dollars for the purchase of war savings certificates. Your dollars, when joined with those of your tens of thousands of fellow workers, possess great power. No matter how small your own subscription may be it helps to swell the main stream needed to increase Canada's contribution in the defense of the world's liberties. By the purchase of war savings certificates every individual can take a direct and important share in the battle."

ASSISTANCE NOW

Mr. Edward Beatty in his letter says: "It cannot be emphasized too strongly that to purchase war savings certificates is to serve. By saving immediate and essential assistance is given to the country now while the saving represented by the amount so invested with interest will be available later for your personal benefit. I earnestly desire to commend the objects of this campaign to every officer and employee of the company and to urge that it be given the fullest possible support."

Despite a terrific war being waged across the ocean between the forces of all that is evil and the forces that would hold true the right of freedom for every man, there is a group of people in Edmonton who are aiming at international good-will, and which overcomes personal animosity and race hatred by the use of a rash of friendly conquest.

The band of teenage youngsters referred to in the Friendship Club of Garmoue. Composed of children whose parents are derived from almost every part of the globe, the Friendship Club has set for itself the aim of promoting comradeship and Christianity. To get the ball rolling to a good season's start, the group will hold its first meeting in a hall at the party at St. Stephen's College hall, from 7 to 10 p.m. Featured will be all the fun of an old-fashioned "snack" conversation.

And there'll also be the fun of brother-to-brother, sister-to-sister respect. That's enough fun for everyone. Mayor John W. Fry has conferred the present prizes at the party. His team of judges will consist of Mrs. D. J. Walker and Mrs. Richard Macdonald.

The club this season is under the leadership of Mrs. William Howard, assisted by Mrs. F. W. Mills and Mrs. D. L. Shortliffe.

Scout Officers Visit City

Shook hands this week with one of the Dominion's most ardent boy-scouts, Commissioner John A. Silke, executive commissioner of the National Boy Scouts Association of Ontario. Commissioner Silke visited Edmonton in the course of a tour of the province. At the time of his visit he was on his way to a visit across the border.

The Scout made some very interesting remarks in connection with the work of the Boy Scouts in the United States. He told me that as far as these Scouts are concerned (unofficially), the USA might just as well be in the air. They are working in the same line to get together, supply for the needs of the largest part of their program is to aid to fellow-Scouts serving through bombs and fire in Britain.

Canadian Scouts are doing their bit, too, he added, but he was a little sorry that full credit for their work wasn't being given. He is of the opinion that other people, with long legs, are time and again being given credit for hard work that is done solely by Scouts and Scout groups.

It must be a little discouraging for the boys if this is the case, but there's no doubt about it at the present time. There's very good chance, however, that all this will be evened out, with his herefore gone unmentioned, will be brought to light.

You never can tell.

Targets Bombed Despite Weather

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(CP)—The German Rhineland, docks in the Nazi-occupied French port of Brest and Axis shipping over the Norwegian coast were targets of R.A.F.

It said the raids were carried

Crossing paths with the British force in the Frisian lands off the North Sea coast of the Netherlands,

the bombers were met by

Nazi aerial night fighters over

Great Britain Determined To Give Russ Help

MANCHESTER, Oct. 25.—(CP)—

Foreign Secretary Eden declared

Navy Week Focuses Dominion's Attention Of Fine Work Being Carried Out By Canada's Navy

On watch and ward in two oceans, far from their own seaboard, Canada's naval men maintain ceaseless vigil. Here lookouts scan the ocean for both enemy and friendly vessels.

Blitz Barriers In Iceland

Iceland, fast becoming an armed camp as British and American occupational forces whip it into shape for its role as defence outpost, becomes acquainted with tank barriers, above, along military highway. Barbed wire to serve as infantry barrier is in foreground.

Readying For Battle Of Atlantic

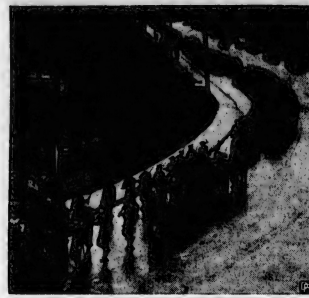

A tug tows a big cargo ship to dock at an unnamed eastern U.S. port where within a few days her engines and boilers will be installed and superstructure erected. She will be ready for service in Britain's Battle of the Atlantic within two weeks.

British Blackout "Lifted"

The usual blackout of British ports and ships is lifted, above, as green and mauve lights gleam from two hospital ships laden with prisoners of war waiting contribution to France. Ships were held in port and the exchange indefinitely postponed when the Nazis tried to change terms of the agreement.

Training for seamen takes place ashore as well as afloat. An idea of the growing strength of the Royal Canadian Navy is gained by this photograph of a long column of marching men, the parade extending far into background.

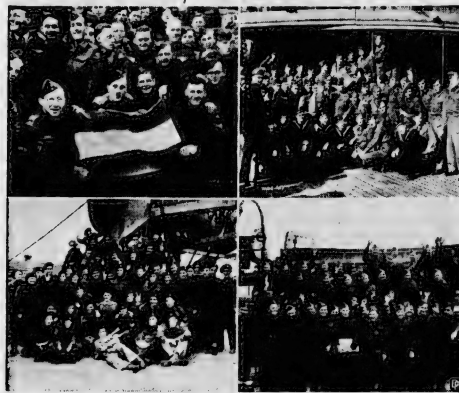

The footwork of Sub. Lieut. R. E. Fare may look a little odd to the land-lubber, but it's a mighty handy climbing style when the ladder is a rope one hanging from a swaying mast. Code of the Royal Canadian Navy is that every prospective officer must learn to do well himself anything he might expect his men to do. For this reason, frequent training cruises are made to acquaint the student officers in a practical way with the duties of the ordinary sailor. Sub. Lieut. Fare attends a naval school on the West Coast.

Sub. Lieut. G. E. Fenwick, of Montreal, acknowledges on a signal projector the receipt of a message sent to his ship. Sub. Lieut. L. F. Johnson, of Ottawa, records the message. The student officers are from a West Coast training school and are shown during one of the frequent cruises taken by naval students to acquaint them fully with the tasks of the men who will some day serve under them.

Soldiers Of Many Nations Sail With Canucks

The traditional "thumbs up" and the "V" for Victory signals were everywhere in evidence as the most recent contingent of troops to arrive in Britain embarked for the voyage from a Canadian port. In these photos are represented soldiers from many nations who formed part of the contingent. In the upper left hand photo a group of Netherlanders, trained in Canada, proudly display the flag of their homeland. At upper right is a group of American Poles. Even the sailors of the ship's crew kneeling in the front row are Poles. Lower left a group of smiling members of an Ottawa mechanized unit. The photo at lower right shows a group of Czechs from Canada who have answered freedom's call.

CURTAILMENT OF PASSENGER CAR PRODUCTION IN 1942 IN CANADA AS COMPARED WITH U.S.A.
PERCENTAGE OF	0%	20%	40%	60%	80%	100%
1931-5 AVERAGE	U.S.A.					98.75%
	Canada					71.8%
1936-40 AVERAGE	U.S.A.					61.8%
	Canada					45.4%
1931-40 AVERAGE	U.S.A.					76.1%
	Canada					55.5%
1939 PRODUCTION	U.S.A.					69.7%
	Canada					59.3%

The chart shows the extent to which Canada will curtail her 1942 output of motor cars for civilian use, and reveals that the restrictions imposed here are proportionately much greater than those which obtain in the United States. Moreover, whilst U.S. production jumped by almost 30 per cent in 1940, Canadian production in that year increased only fractionally over 1939. This year, Canadian production declined sharply and the total estimated output in the U.S. will be somewhat greater than a year ago. In short, Canadian production has already been greatly curtailed, whereas only in 1942 will the war substantially curtail total production of civilian cars in the United States. Furthermore, in Canada, the number of models manufactured has been reduced from 147 to 79. These comparative figures, released today by the Department of Munitions and Supply, have been compiled on a basis to adjust the U.S. restrictions, which are based on the model year ending July 31, to the Canadian figures which are based on the calendar year. The estimates for 1942 are based on the actual restrictions now in effect.

THE Pacific Ocean, with its sprawling thousands of miles, is part of Canada's "home waters." With the celebration of "Navy Week" under the sponsorship of the Navy League of Canada, Canadians have been able to mark the Royal Canadian Navy's successes in the Pacific with as much pride as they feel for the Navy's work in the Battle of the Atlantic and in the Battle of Britain.

NAL Canada knows of the first prize of war made by a Canadian ship. She was the German merchant ship Weser, captured in the southern Pacific after a warning shell across her bows had brought her to a sailing stop, and the boarding party from Canada's armed merchant cruiser Prince Robert had swarmed up her side and taken control above and below. Her capture was a double victory for the Canadian Navy, for not only did they lose Hitler's merchant fleet by a very valuable ship, but they added this valuable unit to the merchant Navy which is Great Britain's lifeline.

INTERFITS TWO NAZI SHIPS IN ONE DAY
All Canada does not yet, however, know of another double victory by a Canadian armed merchant cruiser, in this instance H.M.C.S. Prince Henry, under S. M. C. W. Evans, R.N.

At sea, the Prince Henry intercepted two German ships after a long period of seeking in a neutral South American harbor, they encountered in the Prince Henry, the Empire's heroes of which Prince Henry was a warship component.

When the day came to an end, the two Nazi ships were at the bottom of the Pacific Ocean, into which they had sunk, some from stern torpedoes after their crews, in German tradition, had set them afire. And the closing of the day saw H.M.C.S. Prince Henry on patrol once more, this time with half a hundred or more German seamen held as prisoners of war.

So, in briefest form, the tale of our day's effective blow to Nazi ships given by a ship of the Royal Canadian Navy. The full tale yet awaits release; it is a story of seamanship and decisive action which deserves a page of its own in the gallant history the Royal Canadian Navy is writing for itself with its exploits at sea.

Neither, when presented as one day's work, does the story do justice to the tremendous task as willingly, and so capably, undertaken by Canada's seamen.

THE measure of this work cannot be judged by the capture of one ship or the sinking of two others. These are not incidents—inspiring incidents, it is true—in the major success.

CANADA'S NAVY IS PLAYING ITS PART

Rather should be considered that, in all intents and purposes, the German merchant marine has been chased from the seas of the world, and that Canada's Navy has had its part in the chasing. And, what is more, is helping hold the sea so that such ships of the Nazi merchant marine which remain afloat are kept pent and impotent in harbors. Canada's seamen could tell of days and nights, stretching into weeks and months, of steady monotonous patrols in the North Atlantic, in the South Atlantic, and in the Pacific Ocean; in days when there was not a smudge of smoke to bring variety to an apparently empty ocean, and the seamen watch grow weary indeed. Vigilance, however, has never relaxed and, in calm or in storm, the Canadian Navy has kept the seas so that the seas shall be free of the enemy. Bringing home a prize of war is most satisfactory, but there is a true satisfaction, too, in the knowledge that the monotonous patrols which led to such captures have been well and efficiently performed.

East and West coasts, in addition, have seen another phase of the war work—the protection of Canada's own coastline. British Columbia's coast, with its indentations and islands and hidden bays and sheltering points is a naval problem in itself. The islands have a coastline of 3,000 miles, the mainland a coastline of 1,500 miles, or a total of 4,500 miles when to keep watch and ward. The Atlantic seaboard has 1,000 miles of coast, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the St. Lawrence River.

As secure for Canada as the Pacific Ocean and Atlantic Ocean are, the knowledge that the monotonous patrols which led to such captures have been well and efficiently performed.

John Guild, who was elected president of the Edmonton Constituency Social Credit Association, at the annual meeting Friday night.
